LEVELS OF CARE

Detox and Residential Treatment

Detox is the first step in any addiction treatment program, physically preparing the individual for the rest of the treatment process. Tactical Recovery provides a safe, structured environment for Veterans who are struggling with a substance use disorder or mental health concerns. Upon arrival, individuals will be evaluated and if detoxification is necessary, it will take place before they move to residential care. Clients reside at one of our peaceful, homelike facilities during treatment, receiving access to 24/7 care and support from a team of credentialed recovery professionals

Outpatient Treatment

Tactical Recovery offers full continuum of services, providing an array of ongoing care support. In an outpatient level of care, you will continue your journey of recovery through the options of intensive outpatient programming and partial hospitalization programming. These levels of care create structured support that is needed in early recovery while also offering more independent living. As a segue treatment option, outpatient treatment will be considered as a part of your recovery journey.

Aftercare Support

Tactical Recovery's commitment to helping our clients doesn't end after discharge from residential treatment. In fact, we begin building your aftercare plan as soon as you are admitted. Just as residential services are individualized to meet your unique needs, so are the plans for ongoing support. Your treatment team will research all possible support services in your home area and will connect you with appropriate resources that will guide you through long-term success. You will also be connected to an alumni group, composed of other peers who have walked the recovery journey alongside of you.

Bridge Care

When there isn't current availability at a VA facility, but a veteran needs immediate help, our Bridge Care program can be the answer. With proper authorization, veterans can start receiving care at our Tactical Recovery program locations until services can be secured at a VA facility. This bridge can support veterans when they need help the most, and start them on the road to recovery sooner.
